

One-a-Day Portraits – Classical Oil Painting
Novice to Advanced

Instructor: Sandy “Goguen” MacKenzie

Dates: Two Days -- Sunday September 12 and Sunday, September 26

Time: 9:30 am to 3:30 pm

Location: C.K.L. Police Services Community Room, 6 Victoria Ave North, Lindsay

Fee: $120 Gallery Members, $135 non-members for 10 hours of instruction

About the Instructor:

Sandy, nicknamed “Goguen”, is a classically-trained artist in both drawing and oil painting. Her passion is still life and portraits. An oil painter since the age of nine, she has taken courses at the Realist School of Art in Toronto under the direction of Juan Martinex and David Gluck and has also studied drawing techniques with Paula Bradshaw. Other instructors have been Tim Packer with instruction in portraits and Doug Purdon with instruction in colour harmony. She works out of her studio located in downtown Oshawa where her paintings are on display. Her work is represented at the KOHL Gallery in Toronto and is also shown at the Cobourg Art Show, Oshawa Fall Show and the KAG Gallery in Peterborough.

Course Content:

Learn the different colours for the face and produce one portrait each Sunday.

Bring a photo that is not washed out. It is easier for you if the photo has come contrast and a lot of colour in the face. The paint will be applied thick in a mosaic pattern. You will learn to see a variety of colour in the face. This allows more depth and realism.

It isn't hard and is a lot of fun. Enjoy!

Supplies:

Bring two 11x14 canvasses, palette, palette knife, and rags

Variety of brushes -- shapes, sizes

Paint colours – cad red, cad yellow, ultramarine blue, alizarin crimson, titanium white, naples yellow, yellow ochre, burnt sienna, lamp black, burnt umber.
